OPNAV INSTRUCTION 1427.1B

From: Chief of Naval Operations

Subj: REGULATIONS GOVERNING RUNNING MATES, PRECEDENCE, AND COMPETITIVE CATEGORIES FOR OFFICERS OF THE NAVY RESERVE

Ref: (a) 10 U.S.C.
(b) SECNAVINST 1400.1B
(c) OPNAVINST 1427.2

1. Purpose

a. To provide procedures for a running mate system (RMS) with officers on the active duty list (ADL) governing the promotion of officers of the Navy Reserve under reference (a), sections 14304, 14305, and 14306.

b. To prescribe regulations governing the assignment of running mates and the establishment of precedence and competitive categories for officers on the reserve active status list (RASL) of the Navy.

c. Major changes to this revision include the renaming of Information Dominance Corps to Information Warfare Community (IWC) and the Information Warfare (181X) designator to Cryptologic Warfare. This is a complete revision and should be reviewed in its entirety.

2. Cancellation. OPNAVINST 1427.1A.

3. Scope and Applicability

a. This instruction applies to all Reserve Component (RC) officers.

b. Management of officers on the RASL will be in compliance with all provisions of this instruction.

4. Background. Reference (a), section 14306:

a. Provides discretionary authority to the Secretary of the Navy (SECNAV) to establish RC officer promotion zones using an RMS. Promotion zones for competitive categories not covered by the RMS will be determined using the criteria of reference (a), sections 14304 and 14305.

b. Authorizes the determination of promotion zones for consideration of officers on the RASL of the Navy for promotion to the next higher grade by means of an RMS. An officer on the RASL who has not been previously considered for promotion is in the promotion zone and is eligible for consideration for promotion to the next higher grade by a selection board convened under reference (a), section 14101, when that officer's running mate is in or above the promotion zone established for that grade under reference (a), sections 611 through 620. Reference (a), section 14308, directs that a reserve officer who is selected for promotion under an RMS is eligible for promotion to the grade for which selected when the officer who is that officer's running mate becomes eligible for promotion. The effective date of the Reserve officer's promotion will be the same as that of the officer's running mate.

5. Policy. Officers on the RASL of the Navy may be assigned running mates under this instruction. Matters involving precedence and competitive promotion categories for such officers will follow the guidance in this instruction.

6. Definitions. The definitions in subparagraphs 6a and 6b apply throughout this instruction.

a. Reserve Officer. An officer on the RASL of the Navy under reference (a), section 14002, serving in the grade of lieutenant junior grade or higher, in the Navy Reserve.

b. Same Competitive Category. For purposes of assigning a running mate, a Reserve officer is considered to be in the same competitive category as that officer on the ADL whose competitive category, as directed in reference (b), corresponds to the Reserve officer's competitive category listed in paragraph 9. For purposes of the foregoing:

(1) A Navy Reserve officer serving on active duty in connection with the full-time support (FTS) of the RC who is assigned to a competitive category under subparagraph 8b is considered, for purposes of assigning a running mate, to be in the same competitive category as the officer on the ADL whose competitive category, as directed in reference (b), most closely corresponds to the FTS officer's competitive category.

(2) A Navy Reserve officer assigned to the competitive category of strategic sealift officer is considered, for purposes of assigning a running mate, to be in the same competitive category as an officer on the ADL serving in the competitive category of unrestricted line officer.

7. Assignment of Running Mates. While in the grade of lieutenant junior grade or higher, each officer on the RASL in a competitive category under the RMS will have an assigned running mate of the same grade from the Navy ADL.

a. A reserve officer must have assigned as a running mate the next junior officer on the ADL in the same competitive category having the same grade and date of rank. If there is no such officer, then the officer assigned as the reserve officer's running mate is the most senior officer on the ADL in the same competitive category with the next later date of rank serving in the same grade. If the reserve officer would be the last officer on the list, then the next senior officer in the same competitive category on the ADL with the same date of rank will be assigned. If there are two reserve officers that would fall together sequentially when merged with the officers on the ADL, they both would be assigned the same running mate from the ADL. Relative seniority between a Navy Reserve officer and an officer on the ADL with the same grade and date of rank shall be determined by applying the criteria in reference (c).

b. If the running mate of a Reserve officer is separated or released from the ADL, changes competitive categories, or loses seniority, the Reserve officer will be assigned a new running mate. The running mate to be assigned is the officer on the ADL in the same competitive category and grade who was next junior to the former running mate, or if there is none, the eligible officer on the ADL in the same competitive category and grade who was next senior to the former running mate.

c. When a Reserve officer is promoted after selection, such officer will have a running mate in the higher grade. The officer on the ADL to be assigned as the running mate of the Reserve officer is the same officer who was the running mate of the Reserve officer before the Reserve officer was promoted, if that running mate was selected for promotion by a selection board convened under reference (a), section 611, immediately preceding the board which selected the Reserve officer. Otherwise, the officer to be assigned as the new running mate is the officer on the ADL in the same competitive category and among those selected, who was next junior to the former running mate in the grade for which promoted, or the next senior if no junior were selected.

d. If the running mate of a Reserve officer is promoted to a higher grade and the Reserve officer is not promoted, the Reserve officer will be assigned a new running mate in the grade in which that officer remains. The officer to be assigned is the officer on the ADL in the same grade and same competitive category as the Reserve officer who was next junior to the former running mate, and who was not selected for promotion, or if there is none, the eligible officer on the ADL in the same grade and same competitive category who was next senior to the former running mate, and who was not selected for promotion.

e. If a Reserve officer is appointed or redesignated in a different competitive category than that in which presently serving, the Reserve officer will be assigned a new running mate in the competitive category and grade to which appointed or redesignated.

f. When a Navy Reserve officer is assigned to a competitive category which has no corresponding ADL officers of the same grade being considered for promotion during a fiscal year promotion cycle, the officer will be assigned, during that cycle, for purposes of promotion eligibility, and for determination of date of rank in the new grade (if selected), a running mate in the unrestricted line on the ADL, following the guidelines in subparagraphs 7a, 7b, or 7c. Thereafter, the normal running mate rules for the Navy Reserve officer's competitive category will apply.

8. RASL

a. A precedence listing of officers in an active status in the Navy Reserve who are not on the ADL will be maintained for each competitive category established as directed in reference (a), section 14002.

b. The relative precedence among Reserve officers in each competitive category will be based on grade and date of rank. Those officers with the same grade and date of rank will be placed on the precedence list applying the criteria in reference (c) for precedence of officers on the ADL.

c. The Reserve officer precedence listings for each competitive category will be updated at least annually, to establish promotion zones for each category as directed by reference (a), section 14305.

9. Navy Reserve Officer Competitive Categories

a. Each Navy Reserve officer, other than an FTS officer, who is not on the ADL will be assigned to one of the competitive categories in subparagraph 9a for promotion.

Note 1: All aerospace engineering duty officers, designators 151X and 152X in the paygrade of O-6 will be assigned to the competitive category aerospace engineering duty officer, designator 150X, unless the officer specifically declines such redesignation when they are, by virtue of their experience, considered qualified in both aerospace engineering, designator 151X, and maintenance, designator 152X. This change of competitive category, to designator 150X, will normally occur approximately 3 years from date of rank as O-6. The 3 years of time-in-grade may be changed at the discretion of the Chief of Naval Operations. However, the redesignation to designator 150X officers must occur not later than 1 month prior to the convening date of the next selection board, to consider redesignated 150X for promotion to paygrade O-7. Note 2: All oceanography, cryptologic warfare, information professional and intelligence officers in the paygrade of O-7 will be assigned to the competitive category of IWC flag officer (186X) upon assignment of date of rank. This change of competitive category will allow an IWC O-7 to compete for O-8 as an IWC flag. For the purpose of membership on selection boards, officers assigned the IWC flag 186X designator will be considered as being in the same competitive category as their permanent corps designator.

Note 3: All Medical Corps, Dental Corps, Medical Service Corps, and Nurse Corps officers in the paygrade of O-7 will be assigned to the competitive category of senior health care executive (270X) upon assignment of date of rank. For the purpose of membership on selection boards officers assigned, the senior health care executive 270X designator will be considered as being in the same competitive category as their permanent corps designator.

b. Each FTS officer will compete for promotion in one of the categories in subparagraph 9b.
