Subj: NAVY LANGUAGE PROFESSIONAL AND NAVY LINGUIST OF THE YEAR

Ref: (a) SECNAVINST 1650.1H
     (b) DON Guide No. 451-02 of Sep 2005 (NOTAL)

Encl: (1) Sample Nomination Package

1. Purpose. To establish and provide guidance and procedures for the Language Professional of the Year (career linguists), and Linguist of the Year (non-career linguists) Programs.

2. Scope. This instruction applies to all active duty, reserve, and civilian members with foreign language proficiencies, provided they have distinguished themselves through the use of their foreign language skills in support of the Navy’s language, regional expertise and culture (LREC) mission during the year.

3. Background. There are eight separate awards. Eligibility is based on bands (E1-E6, E7-E9, CW02-06, civilian) and whether or not the member is a career linguist (language professional) or non-career linguist.

   a. Language Professional. This category recognizes Sailors and Navy civilians whose occupational specialties (enlisted rating, officer designator, or civilian job description) require proficiency in a foreign language. Members serving in the cryptologic technician interpretive (CTI) rating, foreign area officer (FAO) community, or as a civilian linguist are eligible to compete in the language professional categories. Specific awards and eligible candidates are listed below:

      (1) Language Professional of the Year. E1-E6 Sailors serving in the CTI rating.
(2) Senior Language Professional of the Year. E7-E9 Sailors serving in the CTI rating who have demonstrated personal linguistic excellence and who have also significantly improved the linguistic readiness of their Sailors, thereby enhancing the operational readiness of their commands.

(3) Officer Language Professional of the Year. Officers serving in the FAO community.

(4) Navy Civilian Career Linguist of the Year. Navy civilians serving in positions designated as requiring a foreign language.

b. Non-Career Linguist. This category recognizes Sailors in enlisted ratings, officer communities, and Navy civilians with job descriptions whose primary duties do not require language proficiency. Awards and eligible candidates:

(1) Non-Career Linguist of the Year. E1-E6 Sailors serving in any rating other than CTI.

(2) Senior Non-Career Linguist of the Year. E7-E9 Sailors serving in any rating other than CTI who have demonstrated personal linguistic excellence and who have also significantly improved the linguistic readiness of their Sailors, thereby enhancing the operational readiness of their commands.

(3) Officer Non-Career Linguist of the Year. Warrant officers and officers serving in communities other than FAO.

(4) Navy Civilian Non-Career Linguist of the Year. Navy civilians serving in positions not designated as requiring a foreign language.

4. Nomination Procedures

a. Nominating activities and commands shall ensure nominations are in the format specified in this instruction and are forwarded via their type commanders (TYCOMs) (or equivalent superior commands). Each nominating command will forward a file copy of the complete package, including member’s biography, on a CD-ROM disk in Microsoft Word format.
b. Submissions should cover the entire preceding fiscal year, and must reach the Navy Foreign Language Office (OPNAV (N13F)) by 1 December for selection board consideration. Results will be disseminated announcing the names of winners and all other finalists.

c. Nomination packages will follow the guidance provided in enclosure (1), containing the following items:

   (1) Commanding officer’s endorsement letter, including all subsequent endorsements, detailing the member’s mission accomplishments, contributions to language readiness and training, and personal self-improvement.

   (2) For enclosure (1) of the nomination package, include official certification of current language proficiency for all tested languages.

   (3) For enclosure (2) of the nomination package, include an 8x10 color head and shoulders photograph of nominee in service dress uniform or appropriate civilian attire.

   (4) For enclosure (3) of the nomination package, include the nominee’s essay. Essay topics are chosen annually, therefore, subject matter and content will be promulgated annually via separate correspondence.

   (5) For enclosure (4) of the nomination package, include OPNAV 1650/3 Personal Award Nomination per references (a) or (b). OPNAV 1650/3 must include a written summary of the accomplishments leading to the member’s nomination for the program.

d. Awards

   (1) OPNAV (N13F) will forward awards for Navy-level winners per references (a) and (b). Therefore, they may not be awarded any medal or Navy Superior Civilian Service Award at intermediate competition levels.

   (2) TYCOMs, or equivalents, are authorized to award the Navy Achievement Medal or Navy Meritorious Civilian Service Award per references (a) and (b), as appropriate, for their top candidates not selected as Navy-level winners.
