The Fiscal Year 2017 (FY17) baseline budget submission for the Department of the Navy (DON) is $155.4 billion. The DON FY17 budget supports missions specified in Quadrennial Defense Review (QDR), and the priorities of the Secretary of the Navy, Chief of Naval Operations, and Commandant of the Marine Corps. The DON can meet the mission areas outlined in the QDR, but with risk. The Department prioritized investments to maintain a credible and survivable sea-based strategic deterrent; provide timely options to leadership, assure our allies, and deter our adversaries through a persistent forward ready force; seize and maintain the initiative from blue water to the littorals; advance and ingrain information warfare; and provide foundational enabling elements.

The FY17 request for Overseas Contingency Operations (OCO) continues to fund the incremental costs to sustain ongoing operational commitments, equipment/infrastructure repair, manpower, and equipment replacement. The FY17 DON OCO request is $9.5 billion.
